In just the first six months of 2011, volunteers gave Anoka County Library about 2700 hours of their time, about a 1000 hour increase from the same period last year. Among these volunteers are 114 teens who help with the library summer reading program, making it possible for 7024 children and 2166 teens to sign-up for the program by the end of June. Volunteers support library staff by performing some of the routine tasks necessary to continue providing great customer service.
